Presidents Ravings

Hi Everyone,

We are lucky every week when we learn something, CSG Warwick was a great guest speaker would make a wonderful member of Rotary. Once again the thought juices were challenged with such a great guest speaker. It challenges us to think of what are we doing to our own back yard when the dollar is the only driving force behind a development. I enjoyed the challenge of is it really a windfall with the supply to offshore markets being the catalyst to increase prices locally great speaker.

We have had an eventful month and all members must be congratulated for your involvement in the many activities that have occurred. Last week we had the opportunity to welcome Daniel Bott to the club, we hope that you enjoy a long association with the club Daniel, I am sure that the fellow members will enjoy getting to know you over a few beers in the coming months, welcome Daniel.

I was reminded by email of the importance of the coming year with the invitation received from Turkish Rotarians, what a great gesture from our brother Rotarians abroad. It will be a year for us all to take a moment to remember, and think of those that were there during that time.

I found this interesting article about the diggers I hope that you enjoy reading it as much as I did:

During the Gallipoli campaign, the regular artillery barrage, lack of level ground and constant threat of snipers made playing a football match seem an impossibility, yet diggers still managed to bring Australian Rules football to the beaches of Gallipoli. T J Richards, who was a member of the 1st Battalion (from New South Wales) and a former rugby player for Australia, recalled one of his sporting experiences:

“one afternoon when I came over from Brown[s] Dip towards White's Gully I was surprised at seeing a football floating through the air. I set off down into the blind valley, and joined in with a number of Victorians who had brought the ball from Egypt with them.

Quoted in Journal of the Australian War Memorial, Issue 28.

In fact, sport played an important role during the evacuation of the ANZAC position at Gallipoli. As Australian soldiers were withdrawn during the night, those left behind tried to make the scene look as normal as possible to the watching Turks. In order to do this, soldiers were ordered to perform activities out in the open as a distraction and a game of cricket provided the perfect cover.

Just to finish up Past President Keith Byrne is back on deck with a vengeance, moving into high gear to organize the trip to Moree, this should be a great trip and I would say a great benefit to the Bush, I am sure that we will all get a great feel good out of this, great work Keith
